

Bots everywhere here supporting this terrible idea for a new policy. You guys are cute.

HONESTLY, I don't want companies controlling what information I can access based on whatever is beneficial to them and their wallets. Why should I have to pay for packages to access information that should be available to the public? Nobody should have unlimited power to block or slow down sites. Unwanted censorship is one step closer to completely nullifying free speech.

The potential for abuse is strong with this policy you are proposing.

I don't see what's hard to understand about this. This is a HORRIBLE idea altogether. I mean, thank you for creating a public forum so we can comment on this, but please take the citizens seriously on this one. If this goes through, you will be universally hated. Richer, sure... but is it worth it?

Think of what would be beneficial to the people as a whole, rather than corporate individuals. I don't want to live in 1984.
